Boys' Synagog Organized

The members of the Hebrew-speaking club, the "H'albri H'azoir," which is now affiliated with the "Tarbut," have organized a boys' synagog. Last Saturday, for the first time, services were held here. The youthful chazan of last week's services were Messrs. Jacob Deitel, Maxwell Herman, and Harold Orlinsky. Master Samuel Cass read the Torah, while Master Fred Catzman officiated.

The new synagog was splendidly fitted out, and all present were pleased with the manner in which services were held. The committee to which credit for the organization of the synagog is due, consisted of Messrs. Hyman Goodman, Fred Catzman, Wulford and Daniel Gordon. Every Saturday, in the future, a speech on a current topic will be delivered in Hebrew, between prayers. On the coming Saturday, Master Fred Catzman will speak. All boys who understand Hebrew are invited to attend services at the Hebrew School, Simcoe Street.

HEBREW IMMIGRANT AID SOCIETY OPENS OFFICE

The Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society of Toronto has opened its office in the Federation Chambers, Zionist Institute, 206 Beverley Street. Advice, information, etc., relating to immigration problems will be given every evening (except Friday and Saturday), from 7.30 to 9.30, and Sunday morning from 10 to 12, by the secretary, Miss S. M. Gold. Telephone College 6000.

JUDGE MOTT ADDRESSES YOUNG PEOPLE'S LEAGUE

That it is the high value put on child life and the care and attention spent in the training and education of the young generation that has placed Great Britain in its supreme position among the nations of the world, was a statement made by His Honor Judge Mott of the Juvenile Court, in an address delivered to the Young People's League of Goel Tzedek Synagog on Sunday evening last. The judge gave an outline of the workings of his court in dealing with juvenile delinquents and gave instances of individual cases to show that the child was not always to blame for the fault committed but in a great many cases it was the home conditions which resulted in his fall from grace.

Rabbi Siegel, who followed the speaker, showed in the course of his remarks how the work of the English-speaking Rabbi is concentrated in bridging over the gulf which often exists between parent and child and in bringing the parent to a clearer appreciation of the interests of the child.

A vote of thanks, moved by Mr. Samuel Smith and seconded by Mr. Michael F. Goldstein, was tendered by the chairman, Mr. Joseph M. Gordon, on behalf of the Society.

Miss Deborah Levine gave a musical number.

This was the last open meeting of the society before suspending for the summer months. The study and dramatic circles will continue to meet during the summer. Mr. E. Gelber, Miss Belle Sher, and Mr. J. M. Gordon have been appointed as a committee to assist Rabbi Siegel in preparation of the "Annual," which will chronicle the history of the Goel Tzedek Synagog and its constituent organizations for the past year.

ARAB SULTAN MAY SPOIL BRITISH PLANS

Cairo (J.P.A.)—The Syrian Executive Committee in Cairo has shown J.P.A. correspondents a document said to be a copy of the treaty signed in the latter part of May, by the French Government and Ibn Saud, Sultan of Najd. The treaty binds the French to supply money, arms and ammunition to Saud, who in return will oppose the projected formation of an Arab confederation under British influence and also lend military assistance to France in Syria if an attack be launched from Mesopotamia or Transjordan.

It is not possible to confirm the authenticity of the document, but an American traveler who has just arrived here from Syria, says he heard before his departure that a treaty was being prepared.

Messages from Jerusalem says that the Wahabi tribes, under the sovereignty of Ibn Saud, recently attacked the Shaalan tribes near Transjordan because the Shaalans had just concluded an agreement with the British representative in Transjordan to join Transjordan. Dispatches report that the Wahabis were signally defeated, 400 of their force of 1,000 having been killed.

The importance of this news lies in the fact that it is apparently strong confirmation of the evidence of a treaty between the French and Ibn Saud.

Lodz (J.P.A.)—A proposition was made at the local Town Council to build a town theater. The Jewish Councillors opposed this plan saying that a communal bath-house, a hospital and similar institutions were of primary importance. The Polish press now maintains that this is a Jewish manoeuvre as the Jews do not desire to see the town become Polonized.

SPECIAL TO THE CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW

A DEMOGOGUE GOES TO HIS REWARD

Horatio Bottomley, brazen, defiant and sure of his sinister hold of the masses of unthinking people, the masses who, like the dumb ox, are led into the slaughter pen by a wisp of hay held in the front of his nose, stood before his judges and delivered himself of this tirade: "The dear boys, whether they be sleeping or still with us, know that I have not betrayed them, and you shall scour the country from east to west, from north to south, and you will never empanel a jury which will say that Horatio Bottomley could be guilty of so cruel a crime against both God and men."

That jury was, however, found, and ere this fomentor of racial hatreds and animosities, this disseminator of Jew-hatred, not out of conviction, but cool, calculated gain, not out of love for a man-creating God, but out of a love for "Wine, Woman and Song," quite realized what was taking place about him, he was on his way to a felon's cell, and the ignominy that attaches to it, if indeed ignominy can at all attach itself to such a vile creature as Horatio Bottomley, M.P.

The Jew-hater of a bygone day usually was a fanatic or bigot. But in this age of democracy and freedom and the scramble that followed the freeing of the world from all thralls and shackles, even bigotry and religious and national hatreds must have an economic cause of being, and must show a proper balance-sheet and pay a fat dividend to be followed as a vocation in life, as otherwise a man may as well—and sooner—go into international banking or the manufacture of poison gasses!

For this is a practical age, you know, and dreams that can't be minted into golden and clinking sovereigns must be thrown on the scrap-heap!

PINK TIGHTS AND SOCIOLOGY

A lady eminent for the shapeliness of her ankle, the roguishness of her smile, and the superlative exercise of that supreme deadliness of the "female of the species"—so mournfully sung by the poet—in capturing a new male every other week, has gone to her rest mourned and honored by many of our accident-statesmen and near-statesmen.

Had the lady continued to charm men with her pink tights and nun-like smile, the writer of these lines would have had no occasion of penning these obituary lines of the eminent lady, nor any inward urge to cause tears to flow out of the ducts of the readers of these lines in a Jewish newspaper. But this eminent lady had turned sociologist and immigration-student after the decay of her charms and her farewell to the foot-lights, goaded on thereto by the exponents of "normalcy" in politics, and she only recently returned from a trip to Europe with a report tucked away somewhere on her modest person, that while Jewish husbands were not at all bad (she has had about a half a dozen of them, more or less) Jewish immigrants are decidedly bad and must be stopped at all hazards! Truly, this is a government of amateurs by amateurs and we are well used to that, but government by pink tights is a novelty indeed!

THE JEW IN THE AMERICAN COLLEGE

A great commotion has been raised over the recent inadvertent announcement by someone in authority at Harvard of the future exclusion, or restriction, of Jewish students from that famed seat of learning. A loud and indignant outcry came from many throats, even from some non-kosher Yankee throats here and there, where the traditions of the fathers had not been entirely forgotten or deliberately thrown overboard.

But to us there is news only in the bold announcement of that which has hitherto been hidden under the bland smile and courteous demeanor of the college authorities in most of the American schools of learning of late years. We all knew that a decaying cadaver was hidden under the rippling waters, and we need not therefore have been surprised when the corpse came to the surface as, in all physical and mental laws, it was bound to do, sooner or later. Omnipotent rumblings were heard all along, a sign of a subterranean disturbance of the elements which are, sooner or later, to bring destruction in their wake. Perhaps it is better that they come and the strain of expectancy be over, for an enemy in the open is far easier to fight, and an open battery is far less deadly than a masked or camouflaged one.

OH, TO BE A BANKER!

Were one to ask me, on one of these bright June mornings, what vocation I would choose in my life if the choice were left to me, I would unhesitatingly reply: "Let me be a banker."

A score or two years ago, the most lordly creature on God's earth was a King, hedged about by majesty, and even "divinity," according to Tennyson, but at the present day the majesty of the kingship has devolved upon the great international bankers, who now hold the destiny of the nations in their itching palms.

A representative of the Mexican Government comes here seeking recognition for his rule, and he sees whom? Not the President or the Secretary of State, but a group of bankers to whose tender mercies it is left to decide whether his government will stand or be overthrown, while the question of whether there shall be war or peace now between France and Germany (and incidentally, the entire world) is now being threshed out also by a group of bankers, while the statesmen and nominal leaders of Europe are practically passive spectators to this international game of chess, played with millions of human lives as the pawns.

If there is any truth in the old adage that the pen is mightier than the sword, then it must surely refer to the pen that signs checks or bonds and not to the one that writes homilies and sermons, and surely not the one that wrote the Ten Commandments and the like obsolete things.

JEWISH THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY STARTS CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS

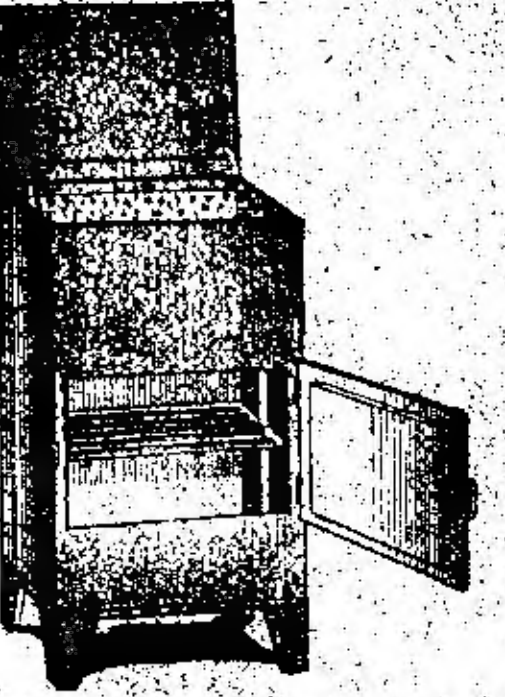

New York.—Appeals in behalf of the Jewish Theological Seminary were made by twenty-five Rabbis throughout New York, in their respective Congregations on the second day of Shavuoth. The Administrative Committee is practically assured of having the New York quota of $50,000 raised during the month of June.

Annual subscriptions of various amounts are daily received by the committee. The largest check received this morning was for $1,000 (anonymous), as a result of an appeal made by Rabbi Israel Goldstein, of Congregation B'nai Jeshurun. Encouraging reports and contributions are being received from all over the country. Appeals were made on Shavuoth in Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago, Louisville, San Francisco, and many other communities.

Mandate Postponed—Truth About Palestine—Activities of the Chief Rabbi.

London, May 18, 1922.

The Council of the League of Nations should yesterday have confirmed the terms of the Palestine Mandate to this country. However, as other points arose which threw difficulties in the way, the consideration of this point has now been postponed until the next meeting of the Council, which takes place in September. It would seem that the delay originated in the attitude of the United States Government, which felt that it was necessary to have certain interests in Palestine safeguarded before giving assent. As soon as with the agreement of America the road seemed clear for considering the mandate, opposition to its being taken up during the present session at once arose. The Italian representatives expressed the desire that certain of their interests in the Near East should be decided simultaneously. On top of this we have a similar claim from France as regards Syria. Thus for several months more Palestine must remain in the invidious position of being in the occupation and under the administration of a country which has not yet obtained the mandate of the powers for the position she is occupying.

A message from Jerusalem to the "Near East" says: The whole of the eight articles in the "Times" entitled "The Truth About Palestine," by Mr. Philip Graves, has now come through to us here. The articles have naturally provoked intense interest in all circles—general admiration in British circles, a somewhat guarded approval among the older Palestinian Jewry and a rancorous opposition from the newer Palestinian Jewish contingent. The articles have also been reprinted in "The Palestine Weekly," an English paper of pro-British, strong Zionist, but anti-Zionist Commission tendencies. The earlier articles have been translated in parts for the Arab press and also in the "Doar Ha-Yom," the paper referred to by Mr. Graves in his articles as "of moderate Zionist views." The "Ha-Aretz" publishes three lengthy leaders on the articles in question. This paper quite recently made an effort to shift the blame for the present ill-feeling between Arab and Jew, from the shoulders of the Zionist Commission to those of the Anti-semitic Gentile. It describes how forty years ago the Jewish idealists from Russia determined to lay their aching heads once more on the bosom of their mother Asia; how they lived all those pre-war years on terms of closest amity with the Arabs, and how these relations were only severed and feeling embittered after the war by the intrigues, incitements and provocative malice of Gentile foes.

There is pathetic ignorance shown in some of these leaders fresh from Russia, says "The Times," quoting a humorous point in one of Mr. Graves' articles, who, in speaking of meeting Mr. Ussischkin in Constantinople, says: "It was this Zionist leader who, on wishing to entertain the Governor of Jerusalem to lunch, inquired diligently what was the Englishman's most usual beverage in the East. The result of his research was that the Governor was given nothing to drink but Eno's Fruit Salts." I might add that I have not seen this incident anywhere outside the present "Times" article quoted from and those notes of Mr. Graves referred to above. However, it is amusing in itself and also that a serious journal should introduce such trivial by-play into what purports to be a serious discussion of the situation.

The Chief Rabbi presided at a meeting called by the London Committee of Jewish Ministers to discuss the League of Nations at the Queen's Hall last Monday. A large and enthusiastic audience was present. The chairman said that throughout 1919 and 1920, a veritable tornado of human malice swept over the 3,000,000 Jews of South Russia. One safeguard alone existed—the League of Nations. . . . The ideals of the League of Nations were the ideals of Israel's ancient seers. Lord Robert Cecil said he had heard it said by critics of the Jewish community that they would always find a Jew concerned in every revolutionary movement, and, if that were so, he would reply that the fault lay with those who had driven the Jew into such causes. He knew the tenacity, ability and resource which the Jews had always shown. He asked for their help in securing a strong British public opinion in favor of the league. Mr. Lionel de Rothschild, M. P., moved a resolution declaring the League of Nations to be the most practical means of securing peace. The resolution was carried unanimously. A vote of thanks was accorded Lord Robert Cecil, on the motion of Mr. C. G. Montefiore, seconded by Dr. D. Jochelman. The chairman was also thanked, on the motion of the Rev. A. A. Green.

In continuation of the Chief Rabbi's pastoral visits, he was, according to my last letter, on his way to Derby. On his arrival in this town he was met by Mr. S. Finsberg, president of the congregation. He examined the pupils of the Hebrew and religious classes, and attended a special service in the new building in Burton Street recently acquired by the congregation for a synagogue. In the course of his sermon the Chief Rabbi pleaded for unity in the congregation in the sacred tasks of religious education and succor to our poor brethren, victims of pogrom and famine, in the Ukraine. He dined with the officials of the congregation and subsequently held a reception at the residence of Mr. Sidney Lever. From Derby he proceeded to Nottingham, where he received a cordial reception. On Sabbath he preached to a full congregation on "The Foundation of Jewish Religious Life at the Present Age." On Sunday morning he examined the Hebrew and religious classes and in the afternoon delivered his lecture on "The Bible as a Book." The Mayor presided and was supported by Sir J. D. Rees, M.P., Sir Arthur Black and others. In the evening a reception was held.

HARVARD AND THE JEWS

WHAT a pity! Harvard University has gotten itself into a terrible mess. Harvard is the oldest and most dignified, proper—no, these are not the words to use: aristocratic Anglo-Saxon, is what we should say—university on the American continent. It was founded in 1683. Its alumni and faculty have been very closely connected with American letters, arts and science. Its students have always come from the "best families." Its doors have always been open to all, in true democratic fashion. Its former president, Charles Wallace Elliot, professes to be and is a true lover of Jew and Judaism. It was he who prevailed upon the late Jacob Schiff to donate to Harvard a wonderful Semitic building and library and even to endow a chair in Semitics. Many of its alumni are prominent Jews, who have shed honor on their Alma Mater. The first Menorah Society was started in its halls—and now, lo and behold, Harvard "hot sich benarisht"! That is the only way we have of expressing our attitude towards the resolution recently adopted by its Arts Faculty to change the entrance requirements for undergraduates, with a view of limiting and, it is said, to discriminate against the number of Jewish students who seek admission. Of course, this has created an uproar. The Governor of Massachusetts has even ordered an inquiry to be made under law calling for equal opportunity, alleging "that since Harvard bars the Jews and admits the Christians, there is not equality of opportunity; in other words, that the people of the state are not being treated equally in educational affairs." The City Council of Boston (mostly Irish) have condemned the resolution in no uncertain measure. The storm which has broken over this "innocent" faculty resolution has caused the President of Harvard to order an "internal" investigation to be made, and the new requirements for admission has thus been pushed off for a year.

Of course, we who have always regarded Harvard as an aristocratic college of blue-blooded snobs, are not surprised. It is no secret that other colleges located in the east have for several years been barring Jewish students, but they have been doing it "tactfully." Thus one large college which requires freshmen to pass college entrance examinations, regardless of their High School standing, has instituted a psychological examination which each student must pass. This examination is conducted by a committee of the faculty. This committee rejects such students as, in their judgment, they deem will not make good college students. To be sure, this committee arrogates unto itself the power of prophesy, which power we have been led to believe ended with the canonization of scriptures. This committee also requires, in addition to mental tests, a character record of the applicants, which must be filled out by the High School principal. The latter is asked to rate his student on the basis of such criteria as "fair play," "public spirit," and "interest in fellows," etc. It is evident that, deprived of an opportunity of socially mixing with his Christian fellow-students, because of prejudice or need of earning a living, a Jewish student would be marked low on these. A survey of names "plucked" in this college reveals an unusually large number of Jews. In this and other ways, colleges have kept down their quota of Jewish students. If we raised the cry of Antisemitism, we would be accused of calling names without sufficient warrant. We would be informed that it just happens to be so and that the Jews are too thin-skinned. The very idea of a quota for Jewish students reminds one of Czarist Russia or Antisemitic Poland. We are happy to say that this condition of affairs applies almost exclusively to the older and better known, privately endowed colleges, most of whom are denominational in character. It is not the case with state universities.

Since every effect has its cause, so this situation, too, has a reason. Recent statistics of enrollment indicate that, though the Jews of the United States are about 3 1/2% of the total population, the Jewish student enrollment in the colleges of professional schools of the United States is slightly over 13%, and in some colleges—like Columbia—the freshman classes up to 1919 were close to 40%. The Jews are not only proportionately more numerous, but, unfortunately, more conspicuous. The word "conspicuous" should be writ large. Jewish students have had the audacity to carry off scholarships and prizes. They have even led in athletics and won their "letters" when given but half a chance. Barred from college "frats" and "sororities," they have formed their own. As graduates, they have taken leading positions outside of college halls. Is it, therefore, too much to infer that this has caused no little amount of jealousy? One can imagine how the small-town Gentile student must feel who comes up to college with his small-town prejudices, ignorances (please permit us this word, gentle reader) about the Jew, and then finds these "foreigners"—whose fathers missed the Mayflower, but came over on the next boat—excelling him in examinations, beating him out for the track, or crew, or ball team; it's a hard pill to swallow. The rest follows easily: "Let's get rid of these contaminating, competing foreigners, then we can have the field clear—all to ourselves."

As long as the number of Jewish students was small and their caliber was of the type that craved Gentile society, and felt flattered when told that they "did not look like Jews" or that though they were Jews they were "white" and "oh, so different"—when this was the state of affairs, we heard nothing about prejudice or discrimination. But conditions have changed. The Jewish college students of to-day are more numerous. They "clique" together socially and religiously, which is quite natural; they are proud of their ancestry. They yield to no one in their Americanism. All these factors seem to have made them "undesirable." And this is happening in democratic, liberty-loving America; it is not only surprising, but it is humiliating and disgusting.

What is the solution, you will ask? That our Gentile neighbors learn to understand that they have no monopoly on the ideals and traditions of America; that all decent citizens are equal before the law and entitled to the educational opportunities without discrimination or patronage. They must learn to live and let live; to tolerate and appreciate differences in religion and racial ancestry. The United States is a symphony of peoples from all the world. To this it owes its greatness and uniqueness. In such a country there is no room for intellectual snobs and aristocrats, whose only claim to that title is that their sires came over in the Mayflower, or that their grandfather made piles of money in dill pickles. A democracy recognizes only one kind of aristocracy, the aristocracy of learning, and to this title, the sons of Israel have an older and more honorable claim than even the Yankee blue-bloods of Massachusetts.

A QUERY TO THE TORONTO BOARD OF EDUCATION

THE Toronto newspapers of last week published a list of names of fifteen teachers, which were added to the temporary school staff by the Management Committee of the Board of Education. There is nothing unusual or startling in this fact that should merit editorial comment, excepting the following sentence which was appended to the list: "The seven girls recommended for the staff include one Jewess."

Being endowed with a super-abundance of curiosity, we read further to discover whether the other six girls were Methodists, Presbyterians, Baptists, Irish, English, Scotch, etc. But we failed to find any religious or racial designation or classification attached to the other six names.

Why is it, ladies and gentlemen of the Board of Education, that when, once in a "blue moon," one of the Jewish persuasion is appointed, that it should call for special mention?

Why should the religious element at all be a factor in the appointment of teachers in the public school system, which is supported by all the tax-payers of the city? We boast that our public schools are non-denominational; yet, when it is a matter of the selection of teachers for the future citizens of a country where church and state are separated, the religion of the teacher—particularly if she be a Jewess—is considered and may act as a barrier to her appointment. Is this fair, we ask?

On several occasions the writer has been approached by prospective teachers whose applications had been rejected, and who felt that the sole reason was the prejudice that existed against having Jews on the staff. We have consistently refused to believe that such was the case in our free city. We know for a fact that hundreds of native-born Canadians—girls of Jewish parentage in Toronto—have been compelled to give up their ambition to prepare themselves in pedagogy and qualify to become public school teachers simply because it is a popular and accepted belief among many Jews of this city that it is as difficult for a Jew to get on the staff as for a camel to get through the eye of the traditional needle. This, despite the fact that every now and then a Jewess receives an appointment. It is a case where the exception proves the rule.

In Montreal and in cities across the border, there are many Jewish men and women on the teaching staffs of the public schools. In Toronto, this is singularly enough not the case, though the Jews are staunch supporters of the public schools system and proportionately heavy ratepayers.

The public schools are the public's schools. The Board of Education are but the public's trustees. Let them, therefore, not act for one or another denomination, but in the interest of the whole public, resolved to discriminate only against discrimination and prejudice, no matter what its guise be.

Merit and merit alone should govern the appointments of our teaching staff. Let it not be said of Toronto's public school system that it is contaminated by religious bigotry and racial prejudice.

EVERY FRIDAY

We beg to submit printed proof that THE CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW is read in Chicago, Cincinnati, Montreal, London, and as many other places as Koenigsburg has suburbs. Not long ago, we used in this here very column a request from the Jews of Johannesburg, South Africa, for a rabbi who must be "good-looking, conversant with Hebrew, etc.," in other words, possessed of "alle milas." Since then the "American Israelite" printed the ad as we had it; the "Jewish World" used it, as did the "Chicago Sentinel." But it remained for the "Canadian Jewish Chronicle" to give credit for it to the "Zionist Record" of Johannesburg, when as a matter of fact, all the "Chronicle" needed to do, in the first place, was to turn to the files of the paper it succeeded, namely the "Jewish Times," where the original was printed twenty-five years (!) ago on page 166, volume one. Dear! dear!

From Rabbi David Goldberg, editorial contributor of the "Texas Jewish Herald":

"Upstart" is an epithet used to describe the behavior of trenchant mediocrity. An upstart is an individual who, having come into the possession of wealth and influence, has lost his bearings for lack of good taste and refinement. Given a person who behaves as if out of element, ostentatiously and provokingly, with a view to attracting attention to what he considers himself to be, and we have before us an upstart, a parvenu, a mieshtchanin—a hedyot.

The upstart is at bottom an unhappy, pathetic figure, as he is at once ridiculous and pitiful. It is pathetic to watch the newly rich make display before their visitors of their ostentatiously furnished houses, of the many vanity pieces distributed therein, artlessly and tastelessly, of their showy garments, and even of their silverware and cut-glass. It is pathetic to observe their establishments abounding with things they know not how to use, sheerly for the fashion of it. All this out of a desperate desire to impress one's self upon society. In truth, the upstart craves for opulence rather than riches, for things that are large rather than for the largess of things. Even the vocabulary of an upstart is characteristic. He does not say, "O, it is elegant, it is beautiful, it is charming!" but he says, "O, it is gorgeous, it is swell, it is a scream."

Rivka says: "No wonder the stores don't advertise book-cases as presents for brides. Most of them don't need anything roomier than a lampstand to hold 'The Sheik' and a copy of the 'Red Book' magazine."

Then there is the story of the lady who invited a few friends in to play bridge. Two extra cleaning women were engaged and a man to do the heavy work. Two weeks before the invitations were issued, the baking began. The color scheme was mauve and yellow and sweet peas were the flowers. But it didn't do a bit of good. The week's issue of the REVIEW came and went without a line of mention. All that work and expense for nothing. Now there is a noticeable coolness between the hostess and those friends. How could they have been stupid enough to take her seriously when she said she didn't want it in the paper? These are the things that give a woman crow's feet and make her take to rest cures long before her time.

With immigration a moot question on this continent, the outcome of the contest held by the National Society of Colonial Daughters of Washington, for the best patriotic essay in English is noteworthy. The prize-winner was Solomon Dabinski, a Jew, who came to America one year ago, ignorant of English. The second best was a Bessarabian; the third a Jewish girl from the Ukraine. Let those who rage against undesirable aliens consider these young people.

"The proposal to discriminate against Jews at Harvard will probably be dropped. It was suggested here that the matter could be attended to, inasmuch as any public institution discriminating against any class of citizens might and should be deprived of tax exemption.

"Attacks on Jews are largely based on jealousy that touches the pocketbook. That kind of jealousy can be counteracted by another 'touch' on another pocketbook—that of the taxpayer. Negro students of Harvard say that the Klu Klux Klan has stirred up discrimination. Probably not so. Something much older than Ku Klux is responsible for the attempted discrimination against Jews. Ignorance, jealousy and lack of energy to compete, are forces older than any Ku Klux."—Arthur Brisbane.

Dominion Correspondence MONTREAL

On the evening of Tuesday, June the sixth, Montreal Young Judaea held its annual dinner in the grill of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. There were present in addition to the members and leaders of Young Judaea, the following guests of honor: Mr. A. J. Freiman, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fitch, Mr. and Mrs. A. Levine, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Goldman, Dr. and Mrs. John Shayne, Mr. and Mrs. R. Darwin, Mr. and Mrs. B. Perlmutter, Mr. and Mrs. E. Bernstein, Rabbi J. M. Zlotnick, Dr. O. A. Freedman, Mr. Joseph Fineberg, Mr. Lazarus Phillips and Mr. Michael Garber. The occasion was not only a most enjoyable social function, but important in that it was the first time that Young Judaea has as an official body placed itself "on view" to the members of the Zionist Federation.

In an interesting address Mr. Philip Joseph, President of Young Judaea, said that the history of our race is the history of a people, wandering and weary, until there came to them with the inspiration of thought, reborn youth, and a consciousness of new strength and of new desires. Living in the past tends to make a people narrow and devoid of creative power; it is the peoples urged on by the dynamic force of youth who succeed. Our youth have refused to wait until manhood, but are eager to play their part NOW in the building of a Homeland. So precious is the love of our people and of our land Palestine to our Youth, that they question not the why, nor the wherefore, but they gladly offer up their life for the consummation of their ideals. Young Judaea occupies a strategic position in the life of our people and naturally in Zionism in Canada. In our youth there is boundless energy that can be used either for constructive or destructive work.

To convert this energy along channels that will make for the strength of Judaism—that is the task of Young Judaea. Were it not for Young Judaea, the Judaism of our young men and women would have become submerged in the flesh-pots of the land. Can we do more for Zionism than what we are now doing? We are supplying the man and woman power, 1,200 intelligent boys and girls, $2,700 in money, and our Judaeans colony in Palestine.

In replying to the toast to the Zionist Federation proposed by Mr. Leon Crestohl, Mr. A. J. Freiman, President of the Zionist Federation of Canada, expressed his very high regard for the work of Young Judaea. In the course of his talk, Mr. Freiman said that it was to Young Judaea that the nationalists must look for the workers and builders of Zion; and that in the interests of Zionism, it was the duty of the Zionist Federation of Canada to stand back of the Federation of Young Judaea—ever ready to co-operate, to advise or to lend a helping hand.

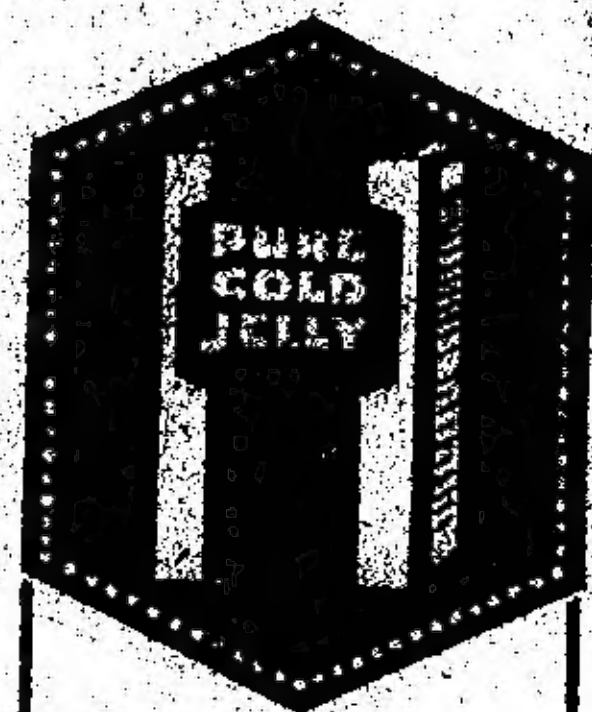

Mr. Harry Battshaw, one of the most eloquent of our younger speakers—proposed the toast to Palestine, which was cleverly responded to by Mr. Louis Fitch.

Dr. John Shayne, in toasting the Chaluzim, touched on the sound and inspiring work of Mr. Bernard Joseph, B.A., B.C.A., and his wife, formerly Miss Goldie Hoffman, who were among the first pioneers to take up life in Palestine, and voiced the hope and belief that the Chaluzim who are leaving Montreal in the near future will also take to the Holy Land the same honest determination to work for Palestine. Miss Lillian Kert who sails for Palestine within the next few weeks replied to the toast, pointing out sincerely and clearly the ideals of Young Judaea that have caused her and others to leave their homes to take up life in the Home Land of Our People.

Now, each one's coming home from Ste. Anne,
With a parchment held high like a fanne—
They've made a big bluff
Of learning wise stuff!
Ain't there no way these teachers to canne?

Miss Bessie Louis, who graduated from the School of Teachers, Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, this year, ran true to regular "Louis" form, by carrying off the first prize in English, and the gold medal for coming first in the gymnastic competition. It is interesting to note that in their day, her sisters did their share of prize-taking. Miss Goldye Louis, who graduated in 1920, won the First Prince of Wales Bronze Medal, the Wm. Todd Gold Medal for gymnastics, the Wm. Murray Prize in English and the French Prize, and Miss Annie Louis carried off the Duke of Devonshire Bronze Medal for Teaching in 1918, which makes it more or less a family affair. Among others to receive the Intermediate Diplomas were: Lillian

Religious School Closing

The closing exercises of the Religious School took place Sunday afternoon, June 11, at 3.00 p.m. The synagog was crowded with parents and friends of the children. Over three hundred pupils of the school, accompanied by their teachers, were led into the school by Mr. Edmund Scheuer, venerable vice-president of the congregation, whose interest in religious school work has become proverbial, and Mr. E. Frederick Singer, honorary secretary, and for many years loyal and devoted superintendent of the school. The children were decked in their finest and took their seats by classes. The program consisted of the singing of Ma Tovv by the choir and prayer by the Rabbi. Miss Ray Jacobs delivered a short address on behalf of the teachers, in which she expressed the good wishes of the teachers, whose services are given without remuneration. Mr. E. F. Singer followed with the superintendent's report. He pointed out that the registration of the school was 350; average attendance each Sunday morning was over 300. This year's registration and attendance has been the best in the history of the school. Mr. Singer also reported on the progress each class made in the various studies of post-Biblical Jewish, Hebrew and history, singing, etc. The monthly children's Sabbath service had proved unusually interesting and attracted most of the children. The high school department, which had been organized last fall, now had an attendance of sixty and was under the direction of Rabbi and Mrs. Brickner. All the children of last year's confirmation class were continuing their religious education in this department. Next year it is hoped that the department will grow to four classes. At the end of the three years' course, the pupils will be graduated and be prepared to take up the work of teaching. A report was also made on the branch religious school, conducted at the Girls' Club on McCaul Street. This school is specially designed for children attending mission houses. Mrs. Brookstone is superintendent of the school, which has two teachers. It is hoped that, with the assistance of the Sisterhood, the school will have a very large attendance next fall. The medals, presented by Mrs. Leo Frankel, Council of Jewish Women, and the Sisterhood, were distributed with a few well-chosen words by Mrs. Brickner.

Martin Cohen won a gold fob, given by the Temple Sisterhood; Ben Koskey, a silver fob, from the Council of Jewish Women. A gold medal, donated by Mrs. Helena Frankel, was given to Lila Rotenberg, and Gertrude Houzer got a special prize given by Mrs. S. Lubelsky, in memory of her mother. One bible, donated by Mrs. Levy, was given to Jennie Rabinovitch, and another from the same source went to Lilyan Suroff.

Other winners in Rabbi Brickner's class were Gertrude Rotenberg, Harry Singer, James Montagnes, and Leonard Mehr; for attendance, Rose Elias, Sydney Cohen, and Hildred Greenberg.

In Mrs. Brickner's class were Cecile Bernatein, Ora Laddon, Adele Greenberg, and Hyman Shalof. In Mr. Geldzaeler's class, Jennie Rabinovitch, Harold Prytker, Ben Weintraub, Annie Yaffe, and Frances Stein. In Miss Finberg's class, Esther Dinahberg, Mary Feldstein, and Margaret Shott. In Mr. Samuel's class, Hilda Rotenberg, Ruth Lavine, Stanley Singer, Sydney Friefeld, Lloyd Bernstein, and Ruth Rosenthal. The following graduates of the McGill Law School received the degree of B.C.L. at the convocation exercises last week: Harold Neumann (1st class honors); I. A. Popliger and A. S. Solomon (2nd class honors) and A. Shulemson. Mr. Neumann, who graduated second of his class, has had a brilliant university career. He entered the Law School with a matriculation prize of $100 and carried off at the end of the first year a special prize for Roman Law, another prize of $50 and 1st class honors; at the end of the second year, the degree of LL.B., and in the third year, 1st class honors again. This year at graduation, Mr. Neumann won a prize of $50; the Junior Bar Prize for Civil Procedure and a Prize for Legal Research.

We feel as though we're running a special prize number. But—what's to be did? In the spring a young man's fancy runs to tests—and prizes too! We can't help it! 'Taint our fault! 'Tis the trend of the times... Therefore, hark ye! and we'll tell you who won what at the closing of the Temple Emanu-El Sabbath School. The President's Medal for general proficiency was given to Oscar Nutik as the first pupil in the school. The John Kuppenheiner Memorial Gold Medal was won by Solomon Nutik for perfect attendance. Eileen Doris was the winner of a silver medal for attendance, and Stanley Davis who has had perfect attendance for the past two years was awarded a special prize. Other prizes were given as follows: Charles Goldstein, Olga Lewis, Elyse Bercovitch, Hazel Rubin, Ira Rudofsky, Sidney Medine, Beatrice Gould, and honor cards to Alice Goldstein, Freda Katz, Fanny Roman, Howard Lewinson, Leonard Rubin, Hyman Nutik, Bram Rostov, Henry Brant, Edna Goldstein and Rose Nutik. Alice Goldstein was the winner of a special prize for perfect attendance at the Sabbath Services.

Mr. Chas. F. Ackerman, of the McGill University, Montreal, has stopped in Winnipeg for a few days, en route to his home in Melfort, Sask. He is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Isaacs, 200 Balmoral St.

Mrs. A. Levinson, 137 Lonside St., entertained at the tea hour on Monday, June 5th, in honor of Mrs. J. Enzer and daughter Jeanette, of Montreal, and Mrs. A. S. Bernstein, of Vancouver. Mrs. Ed. Mitchell and Mrs. Harry Lewis did the honors for the first hour, and Mrs. L. Churchill and Mrs. J. Finkelman relieved them for the remainder of the afternoon. Assisting in the tea room were Miss Ethel Tobias, Miss Millie de Taube, Miss Della de Taube, Miss Ann Levi, and Miss Ruth Levinson.

Miss Zoe Isaacs and Miss Thelma Rackow were joint hostesses at a luncheon on Friday, June 9th in honor of Miss Rose Bronfman and Miss Saidye Rosner.

Mrs. Harry Genser and son Donald, have left for Winnipeg Beach, where they will spend the next three months. They are registered at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. H. L. Nathanson, who has left Winnipeg to make his home in Toronto, was the guest of honor at a stag banquet given by the Manitoba Motion Picture Association, on Monday night, at the Manitoba Hall. Many toasts and speeches were given. Mr. Nathanson was presented with a gold watch and chain by his "pals," as a token of their friendship and good wishes.

Mr. Daniel Freeman, who has been on a business trip through the west, has returned to the city.

One of the closing musical events of the season, was the concert which took place at the Royal Alexandra Hotel, on Wednesday night, given by Mrs. Sidney L. Goldstine, soprano, with assisting artists. A very fine program was selected which was most enthusiastically received by all present. The groups of numbers chosen were indicative of Mrs. Goldstine's range of versatility, both technically and emotionally, all of which were very well rendered. Assisting Mrs. Goldstine were such well known performers as Miss Joyce Johnson, pianist; Mr. D. Mahalek, cellist; and Master Bobby Steinberg, violinist. The accompanists were Miss Lulu Putnick and Mr. Fred M. Gee. Mrs. Goldstine was the recipient of some very beautiful flowers.

Much interest and enthusiasm is being shown by those watching for the results of the comparative standings of the King and Queen candidates for the Jewish Orphanage Summer Carnival, which will be held on July 11th and 12th. The results as of Thursday June 8th, are as follows: Ruthy Levinson, 152,500; Sarah Feintuch, 76,400; Sarah Baker, 59,500; Bessie Spivak, 50,000; Sylvia Katz, 39,800; Jessie Ludwig, 25,000; Teddie Tadman, 10,000; and Irvin Levinson, 9,250. Those are all Winnipeg candidates, and much credit is due the committees of these juvenile candidates for their efforts to date. But that is not all. Nominations do not close until the end of this week, and then for the big work. Western Canada is far from being asleep, and on the contrary is very much awake. Vancouver has two Queen candidates on the field, namely Rita Ripstein and Etta Brotman, and is working hard to put their Queen on the map. Regina has four candidates, names of whom will be published later, and have commenced working earnestly. Yorkton, Canora, and Melville are all supporting little Miss Jessie Weisler, of Yorkton. The Edmonton candidates are B. Diamond, and Master H. Pinsky. The out-of-town standings will be published some time in the future. In the meantime they are all working like wildfire, and they surely will give Winnipeg a "run for its money."

One of the enjoyable functions of Sunday evening, June 4th, was a party which Mrs. Isaac Cohen, of Winkler, Man., planned in honor of Miss Jennie Buchwald, a June bride. The guests included Mr. Isaac Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Nitikman, Mr. and Mrs. I. Sirluck, Dr. and Mrs. G. F. Weatherhead, the Misses Sirluck, Messrs. Frank Buchwald, Sam Nitikman, M. J. Nitikman and M. Cohen, all of Winkler, also Mr. and Mrs. M. Goldberg, Altona; Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Nitikman, Greta; Miss Florence Greenblatt, Fort William; Miss Sophia Segal, Winnipeg; Mr. B. Sapphire, Haskett; and Mr. I. Bookman, Plum Coulee.

Rev. and Mrs. G. Winerman, of Minneapolis, Minn., formerly of Winnipeg, Man., announce the engagement of their daughter Clara, to Mr. Irving Charach, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Charach, of Winnipeg, Man.

Mrs. J. Spilky, of Chicago, is the guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. M. Buchwald at Winkler, Man., who arrived in surprise to be present at her sister Jennie's wedding, which takes place on June 7th, at Winkler.

MR. MOSES MERSON

On last Sunday morning, at the hour of three, Moses Merson passed away at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. L. Leiken, 166 Friel St. Deceased was born in Minsk; he was seventy years old. By the death of Moses Merson, the Ottawa Jewish community has lost one of its older citizens who helped make Ottawa a Jewish community. The funeral, one of the largest that was ever witnessed in this community, took place Sunday at 2.00 p.m., from 166 Friel St., past the Agudath Achim Synagog and then to the cemetery, where Rabbi Joseph D. Berger delivered a most impressive funeral sermon. The loss is irreparable, said Rabbi Berger. Deceased belonged to the old orthodox school, in whom religion was paramount and constant, suffering neither fluctuation nor change. He was well-known and respected by all, and held in high esteem by all who knew him. He resided in Ottawa for the past twenty-eight years, and was in business until recently, when he sold out, and visited his relatives and sons in the United States. He was modest and unassuming, a friend to all, popular among the older and the younger generation, always ready with a good-humored wit. The late Moses Merson was a member of the Agudath Achim congregation, and served with honor for many terms as vice-president. At the time of his death, he was president of the Chevra Kadisha, a member of the Chevra Mishnayeth, Ottawa Men's Hebrew Benevolent Society and Zionist Organization. To "Old Mr. Merson" as he was called, can be applied the words of Scripture, "And his hands were faithful, until the going down of the sun." He is survived by two sons and two daughters, Mrs. B. Goldberg and Mrs. L. Leiken, of Ottawa, and Mr. Max Merson, of Detroit, Mich., and Mr. Harry Merson, of Providence, R.I.
